Ohio lottery opens with large sales

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Today was the first day Ohioans could buy state lottery tickets officially, but the interest around Marietta was in joining the action on the other side, the regional director there said.

Walter "Snuffy" Smith, in whose region sales began four days ahead of the formal start approved by the Ohio Lottery Commission, says that "now they're getting the hots to be agents."

Smith said he had 10 new applications Thursday and was telling would-be sales agents to send him preaddressed envelopes and proper postage, he didn't have time to do the typing.

He also said his dealers already had demanded additional tickets and were getting them today. He added he didn't know how many they actually had sold early but that there were one-half million distributed before today's

He said the potential sales agents apparently didn't care much about the opportunity at first. "The lottery was too distant to them until something exciting happened," he said. That something exciting was the local furor over the dealer who jumped the gun, he added.

Smith also said he has the state's (Please turn to page 2)

House Oval Office was arranged to swear in Ford, the House Republican leader when named by Nixon last October 12 to succeed Spiro T. Agnew, who resigned as vice president and was convicted of tax evasion in a bribery and kickback scandal.

Ford's wife, three sons and one daughter, his embryonic official family and a few close friends were to join a national television audience in watching the formal transition of presidential power.

But Nixon was not. He planned to leave the White House before the ceremony, heading home to California, his 28 years of public service ended by public and political pressure.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger was summoned back from Europe to administer to Ford the oath of office Nixon was accused of violating:

"I do solemnly swear that I will faithfully execute the office of the President of the United States, and will to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United

Nixon's announcement on Monday that he had withheld key evidence about his early knowledge of Watergate on political grounds caused even his staunchest supporters to demand his impeachment or resignation.

Ford inherited the leadership of a nation that Nixon said desperately needs to heal the wounds of Watergate. Indeed, the outgoing president said he hoped his departure would speed that process.

"The leadership of America will be in good hands," said Nixon.

Nixon spoke on national television and radio from the Oval Office, surrounded by the trappings of the presidency he was surrendering after 2,027 days. The nation watched, too, a few minutes later when Ford spoke in the rain outside his suburban Alexandria, Va., home.

"I think the President of the United States has made one of the greatest personal sacrifices for the country and one of the finest personal decisions on behalf of all of us Americans by his decision to resign," Ford said.

His eyes filled with tears, the balding, broad-shouldered 61-year-old Ford promised "to work on the problems, serious ones, which we have at home, in the spirit of cooperation which I believe will be exhibited with One last time, as he stepped into the the Congress and the new president....

Harsha calls resignation 'a tragedy'

WASHINGTON Congressman William H. Harsha, R-Portsmouth, issued the following statement Thursday night after President Nixon announced that he was resigning from the nation's highest office:

"President Nixon's resignation is truly an American tragedy for he has made very significant contributions to the welfare of the world, especially in the realm of world peace."

"However, I believe," Harsha "the President's resignation is in the best interests of the country. It precludes the necessity of going through the tramatic impeach process which is designed to bring about the same results removal from office. I do not see any point in this, particularly with the evidence recently disclosed."

Ford takes office as 38th President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gerald R. Ford became America's 38th President at high noon today, a plain man vaulted to the pinnacle of power by the scandals that shattered Richard M. Nixon's government.

Automatically, under terms of the Constitution, Ford ascended to the nation's highest office at the effective hour of Nixon's resignation.

Ford is the first President never to face national election, succeeding the first president ever to quit voluntarily. As the transition of power was formally ratified at solemn swearing-in ceremonies in the Oval Office, Nixon was in the presidential jet high above the heartland of America, heading home for California, a private citizen once more.

He had taken tearful leave of the White House two hours earlier, telling the men and women who served him that only a man in the deepest valley can know "how magnificent it is to be on the highest mountain.

Before walking into the office that now is his, Ford declared himself ready 'to start to build.'

Sources close to Ford say he plans to keep the entire Nixon Cabinet and most of the top White House staff while gradually working in his own people. They will come mainly from his vice presidential staff and a long list of former colleagues in the House.

At the outset, he plans to place primary emphasis on a smooth tran-

He seemed to be saying he was giving up the agony in a higher cause. But then he also said he was giving up the fight "for personal vindication.

Newspapers' views vary on Nixon's resignation

By The Associated Press

Two of Ohio's morning newspapers saw President Nixon's resignation in differing light, the Cincinnati Enquirer calling it "a bold act of patriotism" and the Cleveland Plain Dealer terming it "almost arrogant."

The Enquirer has staunchly supported President Nixon and opposed impeachment. The Plain Dealer supported Nixon in 1968 and 1972 but called last May for his impeachment and urged him last Tuesday to resign.

The Plain Dealer, changing from a softer note in an early edition, said Nixon's resignation address "was

"There was no humility, no admission of the real abuse of power spread on the record these past weeks," it said. It added that it "was not politics that forced Richard Nixon from the presidency, it was his abuse of powers as charged in the articles of impeachment against him. The Enquirer said Nixon's decision to step down "is a bold act of patriotism that will preserve his successes in foreign affairs and enable him to go down in history as a visionary man.'

Of Nixon's successor, Gerald Ford, the Enquirer said it is time "for all Americans to join together" behind him, adding, "We ask this not just for the sake of the man but for the goal of political stability at home and peace in the world."

The Plain Dealer termed Ford a man noted for integrity, "a hard-working Saying the resignation "is tragedy enough," the Plain Dealer spoke against permitting development of a one major party political system. "Such an end result of the Watergate scandal would be deplorable," it added.

Rain falls on plains

By The Associated Press

Thundershowers brought relief by the bucketsful to some of the parched croplands of the Plains Thursday night and early today

Five inches of rain fell on the town of Catherine in central Kansas during the night. Sioux Falls, S.D., and Mott, N.D., measured nearly 134 inches in about 21/2 hours, and Dodge City, Kan., had nearly 3 inches in a 24-hour period.

Other thundershowers were active in the eastern Ohio Valley and lower Mississippi Valley, and rainfall was scattered along the Atlantic Coast and northern and central Rockies. In addition to heavy rains, large hail pounded Walnut in western Iowa, and wind damage was reported in northwestern North Dakota. Funnel clouds were sighted in southern Nebraska. Partly cloudy to cloudy skies were the rule over most of the nation with fair weather confined to the Plateau and the Pacific Northwest coast.

Opinion And Comment

High cost of price-fixing

An assistant United States attorney general says some economists believe widespread price-fixing and other antitrust violations add perhaps as much as 80 billion dollars a year to what Americans pay for goods and services. The thought is enough to make a consumer's hackles rise like quills of a fretful porcupine.

In calling attention to this,

Assistant Attorney General Thomas E. Kauper admits that as yet he has no "hard evidence" to back this observation on anti-competitive business practices. He does claim reason to suspect that "there are hundreds if not thousands of local and regional price-fixing conspiracies, which operate to the detriment of millions of American consumers."

It is good to learn that as head of the Justice Department's Anti-trust Division Kauper is encouraging U.S. attorneys and state attorneys throughout the country to investigate such conspiracies. In these inflationary times this is an effort that ought to be pushed hard at both state and federal levels.

decisions in both the obscenity and busing cases this term was the effort to define satisfactorily a community. You will recall that a couple of years ago the Justices decided, as I put it at the time, "to Vietnamize the war against obscenity." That is, rely on local community standards which will vary from place to place. This seemed like a neat way to escape from the endless squabble over the definition of obscenity, which on a number of occasions had tied the Court in knots. Let the juries in Las Vegas or Orange County apply their own community standards and end the nonsense of the members of the Supreme Court sitting up nights reading dirty books to determine whether they had "redeeming social value."

However, what this decision did was raise an antecedent problem: What is a community? Cambridge, Mass., for Underlying the Supreme Court's Cambridge with radically different value patterns than those of the Middlesex villages and farms. Suppose that some Harvard students sponsor a showing of "Deep Throat" - should they be judged by the latitudinarian standards of the Harvard community? Or by a blue-collar jury drawn from Middlesex county as a whole? The verdicts predictably would vary!

WHEN THE Supreme Court opted out of the obscenity business, the local governments throughout the nation went to work with a vengeance, shutting down "blue flicks," confiscating copies of girlie magazines, and in general giving the porno merchants a hard time. I hold no brief for the latter - I consider pornography a form of pollution and am repulsed when these entrepreneurs turn the act of love into bizarre acrobatics. However, the local Watch and Ward Societies did run wild, and the Court, willy-nilly, had to example, is in Middlesex County - a try to restore some balance. The result rather large entity. there was no evidence of governmental support for segregation based on population: there are 185,000 black students in Detroit and only 75,000 whites. The fact that over two-thirds of the youngsters are black is simply a demographical accident. The Chief Justice went to some lengths to emphasize the historical power of local governments over education and the logistical difficulties that busing would create. The long and the short of it was that busing within the Detroit metropolitan area to achieve racial balance was not required by the Constitution. Oakland County, Wayne

County, Macomb County and the city of Detroit were the basic "communities." The three opinions by the four dissenters all focused, in one way or another, on the proposition that the appropriate "community" was the state of Michigan. Noting that local governments and school boards ar creatures of the state, the dissenters notably Justice Thurgood Marshall accused the majority of closing its eyes to reality, thus (in Marshall's phrase) emasculating "our Constitutional guarantee of equal protection of the laws." Justice Douglas, in a separate statement, even argued that the majority had set the clock back to the period before Plessy v. Ferguson (1896) which, he caustically noted, provided blacks with a separate but equal education. Burger's holding, in unequal. Indeed, the vehemence of the dissents was such that Justice Potter Stewart of the majority wrote a placatory, separate opinion which amounted to a footnote. He decried the "extravagant language of the dissenting opinions" and went on to state that in different factual situations he would consider interdistrict busing "proper, or even necessary." This is most interesting, suggesting as it does that Stewart might well go with the four dissenters in a different factual context. In other words, the nature of the "community" for educational purposes is anything but settled.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

I read your article of Friday, August 2, 1974, which was in regard to Jim Wilson resigning from Washington C. H. School Board. His leaving will certainly be felt by the students in the school system. The main reason being his interest in the students and the total school system. Indeed, he has been a teacher, coach, community leader and parent with a deep interest in our young. Together, these gave him special qualifications for the position he once held. Our loss surely is Miami Trace's gain. I am sure that Mr. Foster is glad to have Jim and his family in their school district.

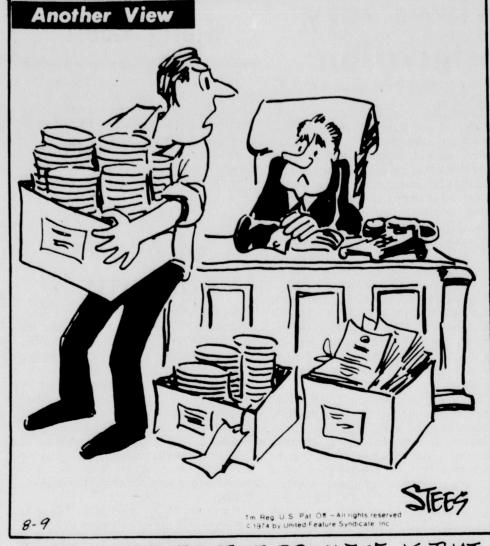

I also noted in the article that Mr. Morrow had resigned, and that Mrs. Kathryn Lee and John Wedgewood were candidates in last November's election for school board membership.

In the elections of 1971 there were 10 candidates. In my opinion all were highly qualified. Three were elected: Walter Bienz, Robert N. Highfield, and Jim Wilson. The other candidates being, Mrs. Nancy Black, Mrs. Betty Brubaker, Mr. Bruce Galloway, Mr. Nelson McCann, Mr. John Thomas, myself and Mr. Eddie Fisher. Mr. Fisher was only defeated by thirteen votes as I recall.

I would publicly like to submit the preceding names to the present school board members for consideration to fill the two present vacancies. At the very least, I would hope they consider the runner-up candidates from the last two elections, Mrs. Kathryn Lee and Mr. Ed Fisher, both very qualified in my opinion. Hopefully, these individuals will still be interested. Speaking for myself, I am not a candidate, but will always be interested in our students and school. There is no greater self satisfaction than working with our young people. They are what life is all about. They are Fayette County's number one product. I'm sure Sheriff Thompson would agree as he has spent many hours working for and with them. Herschel W. Taylor

Civil Service set for Ohio townships

By ROBERT E. MILLER Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) Policemen and firemen in Ohio's bigger townships may get better job security and other protections under a new law that became effective today. It provides that townships of 10,000 or more population employing 10 or more police or firemen may bring them under civil service. The bill permits township trustees to decide if they want to establish threemember civil service commissions and pay for their operation out of existing Forty-six of the state's 1,320 town-

My mom and I have a communication problem. I mean, I don't tell her a whole lot, although I really don't have all that much to hide. Well, I had a hunch my mother was going into my drawer and reading the letters I got from my boyfriend, so I did something that wasn't very nice. I would really like to have a better relationship with my mother, but I need to know how to get out of the doghouse first.

SORRY IN OHIO

DEAR SORRY: For openers you can quit writing "notes" in an attempt to trap and embarrass her. I do not condone snooping, but most mothers who snoop do so because they want to know more about what's going on in the lives of their children.

Apologize to your mother for the smart-alecky notes, and tell her you want to build a better relationship with her. Believe me, she will meet you halfway.

DEAR ABBY: What would you think if you had a relative (a very close one) who told you he was sorry that he couldn't offer you the hospitality of his apartment because he had only one bed, and then you accidentally discovered that the sofa in his living room folded out into a "hide-a-bed?"

DEAR MAD: I'd think that this relative didn't want the pleasure of my overnight company.

DEAR ABBY: I am German-born, but have lived in the U.S.A. for the last 24 years with my American husband. My mother still lives in Germany, as do my brother and sister. I keep in touch with them about once a month with letters I saw them two years ago when I visited Germany.

Yesterday, I received a letter from a so-called friend of my sister's in Germany. (I met this lady only once when I visited Germany, and it is a mystery to me how she got my address.) She wrote, "I think you should know that your mother is going blind, and her general health is very, very bad. They say she hasn't got much longer to live. I told your sister to notify you of your mother's condition, but she said she didn't think you would be interested and probably couldn't make the trip anyway, but I thought you should know.

I immediately telephoned my mother in Germany. She answered the phone and said that her eyesight was failing but otherwise she was fine for a woman of 77. I was greatly relieved on one hand, but furious at this "friend" of my sister's for writing such a letter. How would YOU handle it? Or should

The Death of Ahab

And a certain man drew a bow at a venture and smote the king of Israel between the joints of the harness . . . the king . . . died at even(tide). -I Kings 22: 34-35

Ahab's rule over Israel continued its tumultuous way for several years. On the slightest provocation, he warred against his neighborsespecially the Syrians-but he finally signed a 3-year peace pact with them. His avarice knew no bounds, however, and when he began to crave the vineyards of his neighbor Naboth, who defied him, Jezebel arranged the latter's death under false charges. Elijah denounced the king and predicted that evil would befall him. Ahab repented-but not for long. Again he attacked the Syrians but, this time, in disguise. And, since the Syrian king had ordered his men to kill all but the king, it was inevitable that one should draw his bow against the disguised Ahab. His death brought an end to a most inglorious reign.

market will attract a lot of attention during the coming weeks and almost all the interpretations of its activities will refer to it as a barometer of public attitudes.

The upsurge in prices Monday through Wednesday, for instance, was attributed generally to a sense of public relief that the continuing tragedy of Watergate might soon be put into the past, leaving the future unencumbered. But the question remains: Is the market a barometer of public opinion? Those who follow the market have understood for a long time the significance of Needham's statement. Exchange figures show that in 1960 more than 60 per cent of all volume was by individuals; at the end of 1973, just 27 per cent.

In 1966-1967 a significant change in the character of transactions took place, with institutions overtaking individuals as the dominant traders. The gap has been widening since then. The question then is this: Do mutual panies, bank trusts and the like constitute "the public?" A further investigation of recent trading activity reveals some other items that throw doubt upon the casual assignation of mysterious, mind-read-and pension funds, insurance coming powers to the stock market: The portfolio managers of funds and insurance companies have never been seen or heard soliciting the views of the masses who supply them with money. They act completely independently of their public

These same institutions have enormous amounts of money with which to trade. They concentrate their attention on a relatively few stocks. Many of these stocks are in the Dow Jones Industrial Average, the best known measure of prices.

As a result, the DJIA has a pronounced tendency toward wider swings than, let us say, five or six years ago. And sharp price changes in themselves attract more attention. -Many of these institutions have what is called fringe or play money.

That is, they have certain amounts ready for quick action on important, market-exciting news, such as a government price report - or a resignation. So much for the institutions and their role in the "public market." Then there are the speculators of all sorts who attempt to rip off a few points from the characteristically sharp rises and falls. And there are the short traders, those who put their money on the down side of stocks, hoping to repay shares they have borrowed with shares purchased at a lower price. The difference is LORDSTOWN, Ohio (AP)- More talks will be needed to settle 15 local contract issues and about 2,500 grievances outstanding in negotiations between General Motors Corp. and striking United Auto Workers, a union spokesman said Thursday.

Marlin Ford, president of Local 1112, provided the first status report on the talks in nearly three weeks, explaining that inaccurate reports were leaking from bargaining sessions.

The contract issues include seniority, transfer rights and shift preferences, he said. Grievances concern production standards, disciplinary actions, health and safety, he said. Assembly lines producing Chevrolet Vegas and van trucks have been shut down here since July 12 when about 7,800 members of the local walked off the job.

day after a settlement between United Mine Workers and North American Coal Co.

John Guzek, president of UMW District 6, said Thursday he expected all workers back on the job by the midnight shift. Negotiators for the UMW and North American announced Wednesday they had reached agreement on a labor grievance involving a company foreman at the Jensie Mine at Amster-Reports that the foreman, Denzil Carpenter, was supervising workers at the mine triggered walkouts Aug. 1 at seven mines. The wildcat strike gradually grew to include about 4,600 miners at 18 sites. The agreement provides that Carpenter will not supervise workers until the state Division of Mines rules on his certification, the company said. The union said North American also agreed to reinstate all miners suspended as a result of the work stoppage without loss of pay.

ALL-AMERICAN FAVORITE - Crisp, golden fried chicken, once known as A Southern delicacy, has jumped regional bounds and is now a nationwide

Chicken is All-American favorite the All-American dish.

History records that the earliest settlers brought along chickens from their native land and fried chicken was probably being served in pioneer homes long before the colonies became like batter. And for variety, there are a a nation.

Crisp, golden fried chicken, once known as a Southern delicacy, has nation-wide favorite.

It's easy to prepare, too, when you follow the basic steps recommended by The National Broiler Council.

An old-fashioned, heavy iron skillet produces the best results but of course you can use your electric frying pan too. Just be sure the fat (about ½ inch deep) is hot before adding the chicken. A good test: a drop of water sizzles when it touches the hot fat.

Here's another helpful hint that will cut down on clean-up: mix the flour and seasoning in a plastic or paper bag, drop in a few pieces of chicken at a time used for thickening.

Turn the chicken frequently to brown on all sides. Then, reduce the heat, cover and cook until tender (about 30 minutes more on medium-low heat). Besides being one food that almost everybody likes, chicken has more

Buying just the pieces you prefer you can feed a family of four all the fried chicken hungry appetites can consume protein than any other meat. It's low in for under two dollars. Or, if you buy a whole broiler-fryer and cut it up yourself, you save even more. If you plan to serve the fried chicken cold, The National Broiler Council recommends cooling it in the refrigerator after cooking rather than at room temperature. And if you're taking it on a picnic, pack the chicken

Fried Chicken might well be labeled in an insulated container to keep it cool while traveling.

There are many different ways to prepare chicken for frying. Some cooks dip it in an egg before flouring; others prefer buttermilk or even a pancakenumber of different seasonings which can be mixed with the flour.

Try this basic recipe recommended jumped regional bounds and is now a by The National Broiler Council for fried chicken. Then experiment with any variations you choose

ALL-AMERICAN FRIED CHICKEN 1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut in pieces

- ½ cup flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon paprika 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- Shortening or salad oil

Mix flour, salt, paprika and pepper in plastic or paper bag. Rinse chicken under cold running water; add pieces, a few at a time, and shake until well

Heat shortening or oil 1/2 inch deep in and shake to coat thoroughly. If you skillet over medium-high heat. Add make gravy, the seasoned flour can be chicken, skin side down. Turn pieces to brown evenly on all sides. Reduce heat to medium-low, cover, and cook until tender (about 25 more minutes). Chicken is done when it can be pierced easily with a fork. Drain on absorbent

Variations: 1/2 teaspoon dried leaf thyme, tarragon, basil or poultry seasoning, or 1 teaspoon curry powder may be mixed with flour.

For extra crispness: dip chicken in buttermilk before shaking in seasoned flour. Let chicken stand a half hour to dry coating; then sprinkle moist spots with more flour.

Add Wheat Germ To That Yeast Bread

By CECILY BROWNSTONE Associated Press Food Editor

It's a good idea to add wheat germ to loaves of white bread because the wheat germ boosts nutrition and gives the bread a nutty flavor. When we tried the following recipe in our test kitchen we found the bread was delicious served "as is" or toasted. Adding honey, as the recipe directs, furnishes sweet flavor.

By the way, after you open a jar of toasted wheat germ (whether it's the 12-or the 20ounce size), keep it tightly covered in the refrigerator. HONEY WHEAT GERM

BREAD

- 1 package active dry yeast
- 12 cup warm water (105 to 115 degrees) 112 cups milk, scalded
- 14 cup honey tablespoons butter
- teaspoons salt
- 412 cups (about) flour cup toasted wheat

germ In a small mixing bowl dissolve yeast in water. Into a large mixing bowl turn the scalded milk, honey, butter and salt; stir until butter melts, then cool to lukewarm. Add yeast, egg and 2 cups flour, beating until smooth; stir in wheat germ. Add enough more of the flour to make a stiff dough. (It will be sticky.)

Turn out on lightly floured surface. Knead until smooth and elastic - 10 minutes. Place in a greased bowl, turning to grease top surface. Cover with a damp towel and let rise in a warm place until doubled about 1 hour and 15 minutes. Punch down.

Shape into 2 loaves. Place in * * * * greased loaf pans (each 81/2 by 412 by 3 inches). Cover and let rise in a warm place until doubled — about 45 minutes. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven about 40 minutes. Turn out loaves on wire rack and cool.

Makes 2 loaves.

Ford to aid Ohio GOP in November

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - Ohio Republicans, looking for any bright lining they can find, saw a possible rainbow in President Nixon's resignation Thursday night.

Although contending he thought it inappropriate to comment on the effects of Nixon's move at the time, Ohio Republican Chairman Kent B. McGough was optimistic about Ford's political involvement.

"Gerry Ford has always been a help to Republicans in Ohio," McGough said. "I see no reason that he won't continue to be.

Ford has made six trips into Ohio since becoming vice president. A seventh is scheduled later this month, when he is to speak at Ohio State University commencement exercises.

Democrats, as well as Republicans, believed Ford's advancement to the Presidency would help GOP chances in November.

"There is only one way they can go and that is up," said Ohio Democratic Chairman William A. Lavelle. Gov. John J. Gilligan said earlier he wouldn't want "six years of Vice President Ford" as President. Gilligan, however, said Nixon's resignation marked the beginning of an era "in which each American will have a role in restoring faith in our system of government."

"It can't hurt them," said a Lavelle aide at Democratic headquarters. "After all he (Nixon) would have been their chief liability in any campaign.'

Justice Powell now recovering

WASHINGTON (AP) - Supreme Court Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. is expected to return to his Richmond, Va., home in about two weeks following surgery at the Mayo Clinic.

A spokesman at the Rochester, Minn., clinic, contacted by telephone from Washington on Thursday, said Powell was operated on on Wednesday for a nonmalignant enlargement of the prostate.

Powell, 66, was admitted on Monday, the spokesman said

Gov. John J. Gilligan said, "All of us, particularly those of us in public office, have a special obligation to work a little harder as we turn our attention to the responsibility of serving honestly and faithfully the people of our nation."

Congressional Republicans generally voiced forward-looking sentiments. "I expect that this whole agonizing,

NEW YORK (AP) - President Nixon, who in 1952 salvaged his thenyoung political career through national radio and TV, has ended it the same way before an American viewing audience NBC estimated would total 130 million.

And the major TV networks, which junked all their Thursday night programs to air the historic story of his resignation, today resumed their live coverage of the somber transfer of power from Nixon to Vice President Gerald R. Ford.

CBS, NBC and ABC all said they were televising live coverage today and tonight of major events.

CBS News says it is airing live TV coverage of Nixon's departure from the White House, starting at 9:24 a.m. EDT, and Ford's swearing-in at 11:54 a.m. EDT. ABC and NBC announced similar schedules.

The Public Broadcasting Service, serving 246 public TV stations, said it was airing a 31/2-hour special on the resignation at 8 p.m. EDT. Nixon's speech was carried live by the nearly 650 TV stations and 2,700 radio stations comprising the three

Friday, August 9, 1974 Washington C. H. (O.) Record-Herald - Page 8 Nixon's health wasn't bad viral pneumonia and a potentially dangerous blood clot in his leg have marred President Nixon's otherwise healthy presidency. Except for the pneumonia in 1973, the blood clot a year later and a knee problem in 1960, Nixon's long political career has been free of major illness although his health problems have come at trying times politically. His thrombophlebitis, a painful circulatory ailment involving a blood clot in his left leg, bothered him during his trip to the Middle East in June 1974. Only after Nixon had completed the Middle East trip and a subsequent summit journey to Moscow did his personal physician, Dr. Walter R. Tkach, reveal to newsmen the potential danger posed by the clot. Tkach said that before the Middle East trip he warned Nixon the clot could kill him but that the President insisted on making the trip. The fear was that the clot might dislodge from the vein in his leg and travel to the lung, forming a fatal pulmonary embolism. After the summit trip to Moscow, Tkach said the clot no longer posed a threat. Apparently it had attached itself solidly to the vein.

The thrombophlebitis and the viral pneumonia a year earlier came at times when Nixon was battling the results of the Watergate scandals. Both illnesses led to speculation that intense stress on the President might aggravate his illnesses.

The other major illness in the President's political career came late in the summer of 1960 when the thenvice president was campaigning for the presidency against Sen. John F.

He was hospitalized for 12 days at the Army's Walter Reed General Hospital in Washington for an infected left knee.

The antibiotic wonder drugs his doctors employed apparently kept the infection completely localized to the knee and apparently prevented a potentially permanent arthritis-like condition of the knee joint that sometimes occurs in similar cases.

Nixon left the hospital on Sept. 9,

Some time later, he engaged in a series of televised debates with Kennedy - a decision which, ironically, turned out to be a key factor in Nixon's defeat.

The oratorical skills Nixon first developed as a champion college debater failed him and he also looked haggard.

One view was that his TV makeup made him look haggard. But some other observers speculated that his knee infection illness had contributed

The political speculation engendered by Nixon's announced 1973 bout with "viral pneumonia" was of a different variety.

He entered the hospital after announcing he would meet with Senate Watergate Committee Chairman Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., to discuss matters relating to the panel's investigation. It was later announced he would not meet with Ervin while hospitalized.

Shortly thereafter, Senate Minority Leader Hugh Scott accused unidentified television network newsmen of acting reprehensibly in, as Scott put it, questioning the authenticity of the President's illness.

As the year 1973 waned, a number of nation when he said: "As long as I am physically able, I am going to continue to work 16 to 18 hours a day" carrying on the duties of

The White House replied to questions about Nixon's mental stress with vigorous denials - and specifically said that he had not been under the care of a psychiatrist or psychologist. The White House further said the President had been taking no medication for any condition of that type. In mid-November 1968, columnist

Drew Pearson said then Presidentelect Nixon was treated by a "psychiatrist" while he was vice president. But Ronald L. Ziegler, the President's press secretary, and Dr. Arnold A. Hutschnecker of New York, the doctor involved, both labelled the report "untrue. The doctor said he had treated Nixon during the 1950's "in a strict medical illness in him ... During autumn 1973, some observers reported they noted that Nixon had been slurring his speech at times and making slips of the tongue. Tkach, when asked about such reports, said he placed no significance

"I see him just about every day," the doctor said in an interview in early December. "Occasionally he looks Since taking office as president, Nixon has gone into the hospital for a complete physical checkup toward the end of every year and always has emerged with excellent reports except for Tkach's chronic complaint that Nixon doesn't get enough exercise.

Citizens voice opposition to ditch proposal

A joint meeting between the Fayette County and the Greene County boards of commissioners for the Grassy Branch ditch project hearing was continued until Sept. 16 because of strong feelings by interested landowners against the present proposal.

Engineers of Gale A. Helms Associates of Washington C.H., will review the proposed work and assessment schedule in hopes of finding a proposal which would be more appealing to the public.

Of some 40 landowners who attended. 21 were strongly opposed to the ditch work as presented while only seven spoke in favor of the project. Total cost of the current proposal is estimated at $159,514 which would be shared by 73 landowners, the state of Ohio, Fayette and Greene counties, and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Co.

Robert Mace, Fayette County Commissioner, made a motion for the continuance which was unanimously approved.

The next meeting will be held at 1:30 p.m. Sept. 16 in Xenia.

GOP governors are expected to be added to the list, but associates think Ford is more likely to choose someone he knows well, such as Rockefeller or a congressional associate.

But some Republicans doubt that Ford would pick anyone who has been sharply critical of the Nixon administration, such as Richardson, Hatfield, Brooke, Percy and Anderson.

Ford, himself, has talked in the past of the need to broaden the GOP. In 1968, he urged presidential candidate last of the original Nixon team.

Richard M. Nixon to select a more liberal running mate, such as New York Mayor John V. Lindsay, to broaden the appeal of the minority GOP.

In planning his new administration, Ford secured a promise from Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to stay on. He had developed ties with Kissinger early in his vice presidency.

Last spring, Ford expressed doubts about the political acumen of Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger, but no early change is likely. Secretary of Interior Rogers C. B. Morton might move to a key White House spot.

In the White House, the major survivor will be Chief of Staff Alexander M. Haig Jr., at least in the first months of the Ford administration. Ford's first appointment was a new press secretary, Jerald F. Terharst, Washington bureau chief of the Detroit News. He succeeds Ronald L. Ziegler, CLEMMONS, N.C. (AP) - How love the game. You've got to say the many shots can a tournament golfer hit in anger before the reservoir runs dry?

"There's a limit," Sam Snead said 10 years ago. "A man has only so many tournaments and so many shots in his system. Jack Nicklaus started so young. He will burn himself out before he's 30.

This prediction came home to roost for the 62-year-old hillbilly wonder today as Snead and the great Nicklaus found themselves tied at 69, just one stroke off the pace going into the second round of the 56th PGA Golf Championship.

Nicklaus not only has not burned himself out but has amassed 14 major titles - an all-time record, and at 34 appears only to be getting his second wind in the game.

And old Sam himself is a living contradiction of his own thesis — still a masterful shotmaker and a PGA title threat after 84 tour victories and 40 years on the tough professional circuit.

"I guess it all depends on whether you can keep on liking the game," Snead acknowledged embarrassedly. "I'm still playing because I keep at it. I

Manager Danny Ozark of the Philadelphia Phillies has the National League East championship race all figured out.

The Phillies moved to within one-half game of first place St. Louis Thursday night, nipping Chicago 2-1 for their third straight victory over the Cubs. Afterwards, Ozark analyzed his club's situation

'All we have to do is what we did today, yesterday and the day before," said Ozark.

And what would that be, Danny? "Win," he said. "Forget about the other guys. Just keep winning. Eventually, we'll get to where we're supposed to be.

That seems to be exactly the strategy being employed by the hard-charging Pittsburgh Pirates,, who moved to within 31/2 games of the top by defeating the New York Mets 4-3

Elsewhere in the NL Thursday, Montreal trimmed St. Louis 3-2 in 13 innings and Atlanta shut out Houston 1-0. San Francisco, San Diego, Los Angeles and Cincinnati did not play.

Philadelphia's victory was the fourth straight and fifth in six games for the second place Phillies, who kept the pressure on front-running St. Louis. It was not, however, easily accomplished. Ron Schueler of the Phillies and Chicago's Bill Bonham were tied at 1-1 in the seventh inning when Mike Anderson walked, stole second and two out, Dave Cash bounced a grounder up the middle that hit the seam of the artifical infield and skipped past shortstop Don Kessinger for the winning hit.

Pirates 4. Mets 3

Richie Zisk's ninth inning home run gave Pittsburgh its victory over New York and completed a three-game sweep for the Pirates, who've won four straight.

Zisk connected against Jon Matlack for his 12th homer of the season and made a winner of Jerry Reuss, who pitched a six-hitter.

The Pirates come from behind, wiping out an early 3-0 Met lead by scoring three runs in the fourth inning.

Expos 3, Cardinals 2 The Cardinals and Expos struggled into the 13th inning before Hal Breeden's basesloaded, two-out, pinch single broke it up and gave Montreal the victory.

Bob Bailey opened the Expos' 13th with a single and moved up on a sacrifice. Walks to Ron Woods and Barry Foote sandwiched around a strikeout, loaded the bases and set the stage for Breeden's winning hit.

Braves 1. Astros 0 The best pitching job of the night went to Atlanta's Ron Reed, who shut out Houston on three hits.

Reed outduelled the Astros' Dave Roberts, who surrendered the game's only run in the sixth inning when Marty Perez and Darrell Evans hit con-

Last night at the Washington Country Club, mixed scotch two-some matches were played in Class A, B, Calloway. In the mixed scotch two-somes, the teams are made up of one man and one woman playing the same ball. The man tees off and then play resumes on one ball in alternate turns. The Calloway division is made up of persons without handicaps

There were two winners in each division, one with the lowest actual score (handicap included) and one with lowest net score (handicap excluded). In the Calloway division, the low net score is the only winner.

In Class A, Eugene Heath and Mrs. Richard Kirkpatrick had the low actual score with a 45 while Birch Rice and Mrs. Leroy Davis had the low net score

In Class B, Bernard Eiselstein and Mrs. Allen Willoughby carded an actual 51 and Richard Wintringham and Mrs. Bernard Eiselstein had a 40 net In the Calloway division, Richard Kirkpatrick and Mrs. Eugene Heath had the net scores. The team which had the fewest putts last night was Loren Noble and Mrs. Ralph Hyer.

The matches were under the direction of Mrs. Loren Noble and Mrs. Eugene Heath.

On Monday and Tuesday of next week at the Washington Country Club, the Women's Club Championship will be held with 18 holes being played on Monday and the final 18 holes to be contested Tuesday.

NEW YORK (AP) — "We don't want ready, Feeney announced Thursday at the conclusion of baseball's summer meetings that he had been instructed by the league to appoint a committee to 16th victory against nine losses, prepare an expansion plan for the league's study in time for the winter meetings at New Orleans in early December.

> Reportedly, expansion will take place in time for the 1976 season, with New Orleans, Seattle, Toronto and Washington, D.C. being admitted — the first two cities into the American League and the other two areas into the National League.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, American League President Lee MacPhail and Feeney all agreed that expansion was inevitable — the majors have not expanded since 1969, a huge gap in comparison with other big sports and that it will be done "in concert," instead of unilaterally as was done in the early 1960s.

Carter's muskie errors by pitcher Tom Buskey and first winning fish

BY THE CINCINNATI ENQUIRER Winner of the Cincinnati Enquirer's big fish contest for July is James Carter, 635 Albin Ave., with his muskie taken from Rocky Fork Lake.

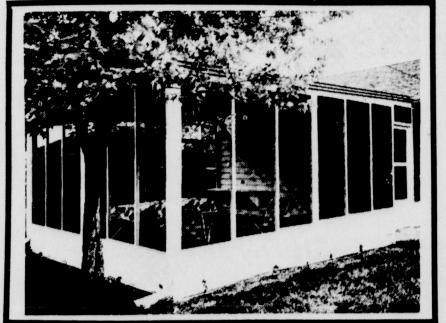

Carter used a prime muskie catcher, the Bomber, to snag a fish 44 inches long that weighed 30.5 pounds. This is the biggest game fish of the year for the tri-state contest.

The Enquirer will send a shoulder patch, decal, and a certificate to the three men who turned in the biggest fish. His picture, along with the picture of his fish were in Monday evening's Record-Herald.

Rudi rocks Rangers

By The Associated Press

Joe Rudi knocked in five runs with two singles, a double and a home run Thursday night to lead the Oakland A's to a 10-2 rout of the Texas Rangers and embellish his flashy offensive figures.

'Baseball people know he's a solid player, although I've heard he's underrated," said Oakland Manager Alvin Dark.

"It doesn't worry me about the lack of publicity," said Rudi, who is hitting .310 with 72 RBI and 13 home runs.

In the other American League games, the Milwaukee Brewers stopped the Boston Red Sox 5-3; the California Angels stopped the Chicago White Sox 6-4; the Detroit Tigers nipped the Cleveland Indians 43 and the Minnesota Twins beat the Kansas City Royals 3-2 in 14 innings.

Jesus Alou also had a good night for the A's. He opened the game with a first-pitch home run and added two singles, driving in two other runs. The homer was Alou's first of the season. Jim "Catfish" Hunter breezed to his scattering nine hits.

The A's bombarded young David Clyde with an eight hit attack in the four innings the young lefty lasted. Clyde is now 3-8.

Brewers 5, Red Sox 3

Don Money's double keyed a four-run third inning as Milwaukee whipped Boston to snap a string of six straight complete-game victories by Luis Tiant,

The Brewers had lost eight of their past nine starts, including three to the Red Sox.

Angels 6, White Sox 4

Doug Howard singled to drive in the tying run, then scored on Ellie Rodriguez' single in a three-run eighth Chicago.

Tigers 4, Indians 3

Jim Nettles singled home one run and two more runs scored on consecutive baseman Tom McCraw as Detroit rallied in the pinth inning to beat Cleveland.

Twins 3, Royals 2

Tony Oliva drove in a run with a sacrifice fly in the 14th inning to lead Minnesota over Kansas City. Rod Carew opened the 14th with a single and

Nixon career: Chronicle of politics

By FRANK CORMIER Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Once hailed as a political miracle worker, Richard M. Nixon has seen his election triumphs reduced to ashes, leaving many Americans wondering if he really did have that sure touch for politics.

How could a smart politician permit the Watergate burglary, which seemed safely consigned as a footnote to history in early 1973, to mushroom into the most shattering disaster ever to overtake an American president?

Some observers questioned Nixon's credentials as a master politician even before Watergate.

Take the big "Nixon miracle" of 1968 when the onetime vice president captured the highest office just six years after seemingly renouncing all political ambition with the emotional declaration, "You won't have Nixon to kick around any more because, gentlemen, this is my last press conference.

He had, of course, just lost a race for governor of California and, in anger and frustration, pronounced his own political obituary — or so it seemed at the time.

The 1968 Nixon comeback indeed had its dramati elements. But his campaign that year, against a Democratic opponent hobbled by close association with an unpopular Lyndon B. Johnson, hardly offered proof that winner Nixon was a politician with a sure touch.

In late September, with the campaign well under way, the Gallup Poll gave Nixon a 15-point edge over Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey. A landslide appeared in the making. Nixon held a news conference at which he outlined a careful strategy to court the votes of key states and insure that his campaign "peaked" - a word Nixon has used often - precisely on election day. It didn't happen that way. A cautious Nixon frittered away his enormous advantage as the campaign progressed. Election day found him the winner by less than 500,000 votes — an advantage measured as a fraction of one per cent of the 73 million ballots cast.

Many Humphrey partisans contended their man would have won had the campaign continued for another week with Nixon sticking to his play-itsafe strategy.

Similarly, Nixon appeared to toss away an excellent opportunity to win the presidency over John F. Kennedy in 1960. As the incumbent Republican vice president for eight years, Nixon came closer to being a household name and, at the start of the campaign, enjoyed a 53-47 Gallup Poll edge over Kennedy.

Perhaps due in large measure to a cocky but unwise decision to join the lesser-known Kennedy in a series of broadcast debates watched by an estimated 85 million Americans, Nixon saw his safe advantage erode until his challenger emerged the winner in the closest presidential election in 76 years.

from Watergate horrors, Nixon's political acumen was not above challenge despite his easy 1972 reelection by a historic margin.

to generate public fervor for a broad package of domestic initiatives he variously labeled The New Federalism

and The Second American Revolution. While voters greeted most of his domestic legislation with a ho-hum attitude, aides said in Nixon's defense that such innovative concepts have no impact on individual voters until they are put in place.

Nixon had better luck in staking out positions on emotional issues that appealed to segments of his core constituency — opposition to busing to achieve racial integration and support for federal aid to parochial schools.

In the foreign affairs area, Nixon influenced voters in a way he couldn't manage in domestic policy. He showed finesse, and perhaps a good sense of timing, in working with Henry A. Kissinger to promote rapprochement with mainland China and detente with the Soviet Union — moves that would have aroused intense opposition a few years earlier.

Nixon brought to the White House a long-established reputation as a hardnosed infighter from past campaigns. However, except for a brief and ineffectual fling in the 1970 offyear elections, he largely eschewed the harsh rhetoric of the past.

Tough campaign tactics - some critics called them dirty tricks marked the early Nixon on the stump. He played so rough that the late Harry S. Truman threatened in the 1950s to punch him on sight. Nixon's tongue then was so barbed that Sam Rayburn, the late Democratic House speaker, once exploded, "So far as we are concerned, his name is mud.'

Controversy was the hallmark of campaigns that brought a youthful Nixon to successive seats in the House and Senate.

A Navy veteran returned from the South Pacific, lawyer Nixon entered politics in 1946 by invitation.

Republican neighbors in Whittier, Calif., were seeking a candidate to challenge Jerry Voorhis, a 10-year House veteran. Nixon's name was suggested and he flew home for a job interview. He got the assignment, not a particularly enviable one since Voorhis was well entrenched and seemed popular with Republicans as well as

The campaign transformed Nixon into a controversial political figure and a winner. He won by a surprising 65,586 votes to 49,994.

How he won is a question still debated. The Nixon campaign focused on a claim, denied by Voorhis, that the Democrat was the annointed choice of the CIO (Congress of Industrial Organizations) Political Action Committee forced to fight a defensive battle all the Thursday. way, never more so than when Nixon faced him in a series of five debates.

Voorhis, known to be anti-Communist, later described Nixon as 'quite a ruthless opponent." The Republican challenger argued that "our campaign was a very honest debate on the issues."

RICHARD M. NIXON

ring but ultimately was convicted of perjury, Nixon decided to try for the Senate in 1950. His opponent was a liberal Democrat, Rep. Helen Gahagan Douglas. Nixon linked her House voting record with that of then-Rep. Vito Marcantonio of New York, well known for slavishly following the Communist party line. Nixon won with better than 59 per cent of the vote, again accused of unfair campaign tactics.

The young Californian had served more years. only 18 months in the Senate when a political amateur, Dwight D. cent of the popular vote, Nixon Eisenhower, chose him as his GOP running mate in the 1952 campaign.

The ticket seemed unbeatable but was rudely jolted when it was disclosed that a group of California businessmen had contributed $18,235 to a fund to help Nixon meet the expenses of his Senate office. Some Republican leaders urged that the vice presidential candidate be dumped from the ticket at once. Eisenhower hesitated.

The crisis reached a climax when Nixon, deciding to make a fight of it, went on national television to defend himself with his famous "Checkers speech," so-called because of a reference he made to the family's cocker spaniel.

"Not one penny of the $18,000 or any money of that type went for my personal use," he declared.

It was an emotional, carefully staged performance, and it worked.

"You're my boy," said a relieved Eisenhower and, at 39, Nixon became the youngest vice president in 96 years. Vice President Nixon held some public attention during Eisenhower's two terms by globe-trotting on the President's behalf and unlimbering his oratory on behalf of GOP candidates in off-year elections.

He remained a figure of controversy. Harold Stassen mounted a "dump Nixon' drive as the 1956 Republican convention approached and, for a time. Eisenhower seemed uncertain whether to line up with Stassen or support his vice president. In the end Nixon was renominated and kept his office for four returned to California to practice law and ponder his political future.

Deciding to sit out the 1964 campaign on the assumption that Kennedy would again be the Democratic nominee, Nixon opted to run for governor of California in 1962. "Pat" Brown Sr., who had a reputation for being somewhat ineffectual. But the election returns proved otherwise and prompted an embittered Nixon to hold what came to be known as his morning-after "last press conference." Nixon's renunciation of politics seemed complete. He gave up his home base in California and moved to New York to become a Wall Street lawyer. But Nixon could not resist the pull of the campaign scene. He kept busy stumping for Republican candidates every other autumn and, in the process, stored up political due bills that he collected to make his 1968 comeback.

The Throbbing Headache

Whenever I get nervous or upset with my children I get a throbbing headache. I feel that my head will burst open. Could high blood pressure do this? Mrs. G.V., Miss.

Dear Mrs. V.:

Yes, indeed it could. But there need be no speculation about it because a blood pressure reading is probably the simplest and most readily accessible test.

This brings me to a message that all doctors want brought to the attention of people.

High blood pressure is a dangerous condition when untreated and neglected. There was a time when hypertension (high blood pressure) could be treated only with bed rest. Today, there are excellent drugs which can keep the blood pressure well within norms and treatment can continue while patients go along with their normal activities.

Many people have a strange fascination about blood pressure numbers. These numbers (readings) are meaningful only to doctors. They compare them with the previous readings, and thus gain insight into the value of the drugs they are prescribing.

There are two blood pressure numbers. The first, or higher one, is called the systolic blood pressure. This measures the pressure in the arteries at the time that the heart pumps blood into them.

The second, or lower number, is called the diastolic. This indicates the pressure in the blood vessels in between each beat of the heart. It is for this reason that one hears reference to their blood pressure as being, for example, "120 over 80." In many instances, the lower, or diastolic, pressure is more significant than the higher one.

Numbers are always terrifying to people who do not understand their significance. One should not, therefore, compare one's own blood pressure numbers with those of another.

Health agencies are relentless in their drive to flush out of hiding people who have unrecognized high blood pressure. By bringing them out into the open and beginning intensive treatment with drugs, diet, and rest, heart disease statistics and mortality from stroke can be significantly minimized.

To reiterate: today high blood pressure in most instances is a controllable disorder. But it is only controllable if people are freed from their anxiety and seek the advice of their doctors.

Perk vetoes gun measure

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) - A proposed city ordinance that would have required registration of handguns was vetoed Thursday by Mayor Ralph Political observers said the action would cost the mayor a bitter confrontation with Council President George L. Forbes.

Forbes had threatened "all hell would break loose" if the mayor vetoed the legislation, passed 17-16 by a coalition of black and white councilmen July 29.

Forbes is on vacation.

The veto was necessary because the legislation would be ignored by criminals and would not prevent socalled Saturday Night Specials from being purchased in neighboring communities, the mayor said.

Perk also said the legislation would be an unwarranted invasion of the privacy of citizens who would obey the law. The mayor opposed a provision requiring that a photograph be submitted in order to acquire a license

Foreign ministers James Callaghan of Britain, Turan Gunes of Turkey and George Mavros of Greece resumed their Geneva talks Thursday and adjourned after 21/2 hours to allow technical experts to draw up reports.

The reports will cover ceasefire lines, prisoner and hostage exchanges and the condition of Turkish-Cypriot enclaves. British sources said.

On Saturday, Greek and Turkish Cypriot representatives will be admitted to the talks, and the sources said Callaghan hopes to clear away military issues by then so the talks can turn to politics.

Relieved Congress eyes conciliation

Richard Nixon's resignation, Democratic and Republican congressional leaders say they look forward to an era of national reconciliation under President Gerald R. Ford.

Noting Ford's long service in the House, leaders of the Democraticcontrolled Congress predicted better relations with the White House in the post-Watergate period after the oftenrancorous Nixon years.

Republicans and some Democrats said one early result would be an improvement in GOP political prospects in this November's congressional elec-

Although most members of both parties praised the tone and content of Nixon's resignation speech as conciliatory, some cricitized him for failure to go beyond a brief statement that "some of my judgments were

Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., said he would drop his move for congressional support of immunity from prosecution unless Nixon makes a "full confession" of his involvement in Watergate and related scandals.

Special Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski declared "no agreement or understanding" with Nixon had been sought or offered. Rep. Paul N. "Pete" McCloskey, R-Calif., who unsuccessfully challenged Nixon's 1972 renomination, predicted the outgoing President would soon be indicted.

For the most part, however, the reaction to Thursday night's climax to the long Watergate drama reflected the waves of relief that swept Capitol Hill

Thieu alerts South Viet armed forces

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu ordered a general military alert today to guard against any attempt by the Communist command to take advantage of the government change in the United States with an offensive in South Viet-

"We think that the Communists will consider this an opportunity to reignite the war in South Vietnam," said Nguyen Quoc Cuong, the Saigon government's chief spokesman.

Thieu met with his top advisers both on Thursday and Friday and ordered the alert after Nixon announced his decision to quit.

Heavy fighting continues in South Vietnam 18 months after the Paris cease-fire agreement that sent home American troops and was to end the Fighting has intensified in the northern and central parts of the country in past weeks. The Associated Press reported Thursday from Washington that U.S. officials said North Vietnam has alerted some of its six home-based army divisions, possibly for a general strike into the south. But American sources in Saigon said they were unaware of such a move by Hanoi.

A Viet Cong statement issued just after Nixon announced he was resigning warned that continuation of U.S. aid and involvement in South Vietnam would mean a continuation of fighting, no matter who is in the White House. Later, the office of Thieu's premier, Tran Thien Khiem, said the U.S. Embassy had informed South Vietnam that the administration of Gerald R. Ford will continue military and economic support to Saigon. A broadcast said acting Ambassador W.J. Lehmann gave Khiem a com-munique to that effect.

High-level government officials, who would not allow the use of their names, said they are primarily concerned about the period immediately after Ford becomes president.

> "The agony is over," said assistant Senate GOP Leader Robert P. Griffin of Michigan. "The long, dark night is over," said Sen. Frank Church, D-Ida-

> "The country has been on the verge of a nervous breakdown long enough,' declared Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, adding that Nixon's decision "now opens the way to a healing and mending process under President Ford."

"He's a decent man," Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield said of Ford. "He's conservative, but you know where he stands. He'd give consideration to congressional views. He would get exceptional cooperation."

"The night of Watergate is over, the Constitution is safe, and America can become whole again," declared Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

"I believe President Nixon will find a prominent place in history," said Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

Destructive blaze hits Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - A threealarm fire early today destroyed an aging five-story business building a half-block north of downtown Columbus' main intersection.

Flames leaped as much as a hundred feet in the air and were visible across much of Columbus.

Firemen said the blaze apparently began in the Hanover Shoe Store, then spread throughout the building, which also housed Dunhill Clothiers. The building was the site until about two years ago of Kuenning's Restaurant, a popular downtown eating spot. Firemen watered down neighboring buildings in an effort to keep the fire from spreading.

Streets bordering the Statehouse were closed as equipment moved in to fight the fire. The fire was located about a half-block north of the State-

New citrus pest detected in Hawaii

WASHINGTON (AP) - Government insect watchers say they have detected a new pest of citrus fruit in Hawaii but that it is not yet a danger to U.S. mainland producing areas.

The Agriculture Department identified the insect as an orange spiny whitefly. It is a serious citrus pest in Asia, officials said.
